

CURRICULUM VITAE

Gitte Bang Stald

Scientific focus and more

My research areas are digital media and communication with a dual focus on the impact of digitization and digital media on transformations in digital society respectively young people and their digital environments, digital practices, and digital citizenship. This comprehends studies on processes of change related to digital media and democratic aspects of digital cultures, digital media and empowerment, media literacy, informed citizenship, and participation. I apply a particular interest in groups and individuals who experience challenges regarding management of everyday life and of citizenship in digital society. I have substantial experience with research management, and I am a certified Research Leader. Over the past decades, I have also been Head of a master program, served as Section Head, and has led strategic research initiatives and research groups. I am a member of ITU's Research Ethics Committee and serve as an expert on EUs Horizon 2020/ Horizon Europe ethics expert panel.
